Proxies: Reid Messich (proxy for Michael Robinson)

Members not present: Mike Arnold, Chris Cuomo, Shanta Dhar, Rebecca Enghauser, Jim Lauderdale, Adam Sabra, Stefaan Van Liefferinge.

Visitors: Charles Kutal, Associate Dean, Franklin College of Arts and Sciences

Approval of the minutes of the February 21, 2012 meeting: Approved without corrections.

President Marguerite Madden's Remarks

- President Madden indicated that the last Faculty Senate meeting of the year will be on April 24. She will meet with the Executive Committee to select the nominees for elected officers for the coming year. Senators interested in serving as officers are encouraged to contact Dr. Madden.

Dean Ruppensburg's Remarks

- Dean Ruppensburg participated in a symposium about student inquiry based learning. Methods and approaches to teaching vary by discipline. Dean Ruppensburg indicated that the Dean Designate expressed interest in the subject. The Faculty Senate could engage in College-wide discussions to evaluate the subject in the coming year.
- The budget for the coming year has been approved, including a tuition increase for USG. Once the amount of the increase is known, the UGA budget and the Franklin College budget will be determined. The budget calls for a 2% decrease in the budget, but Dean Ruppensburg indicated that the tuition increase and as well as the restored formula funding may potentially offset the cut.
- Faculty are strongly encouraged to attend the Graduation Ceremony. Dean Ruppensburg emphasized the significance that faculty attendance has for students and parents.

- In response to a question from the floor regarding his plans for the future, Dean Ruppensburg indicated that he is still evaluating his options.

New Business

Discussion of allowing degree-granting institutes in the Franklin College to grant tenure to faculty.

- Discussion was postponed until the next meeting due to absence of the presenter.

Proposal for Interdisciplinary Studies AB Degree in Social Sciences at Griffin Campus – Concentration in Psychology, and Proposal for Interdisciplinary Studies AB Degree in Social Science at Griffin Campus – Concentration in Sociology

Dr. Kutal provided historical background for these two proposals:

- There are currently 9 degree programs offered at the Griffin Campus.
- Important learning center facilities that could serve thousands of students are underutilized.
- The model proposed to build the program will involve hiring full time lecturers at the program's beginning and tenure-track faculty when programs achieved a critical mass.
- Students that attend the Griffin Campus are transfer students admitted under the same stringent requirements as those attending UGA in Athens.
- UGA at the Griffin Campus was created from Governor Purdue's initiative 5 years ago with significant support from the Griffin community.
- Senators analyzed the advantages and disadvantages of running the programs with full-time lecturers instead of tenure-track faculty.
- After discussion, the proposal for an Interdisciplinary Studies AB Degree in Social Sciences at Griffin Campus – Concentration in Psychology, already approved by the Curriculum Committee, passed with a friendly amendment to replace the word "Sociology" with "Social Sciences". The vote results were: 31 votes in favor, 2 abstained, 1 opposed.
- The proposal for an Interdisciplinary Studies AB Degree in Social Sciences at Griffin Campus – Concentration in Sociology, already approved by the Curriculum Committee, passed with a friendly amendment to replace the word "Sociology" with "Social Sciences". The vote results were: 31 votes in favor, 2 abstained, 1 opposed.

Old Business

Faculty Senate Resolution on Dismissal of Climatologists

- President Madden opened up for discussion the draft of a resolution on the dismissal of the State Climatologist and Assistant State Climatologist. The draft was prepared by herself and Christine Franklin with, some input from Pam Knox and David Stooksbury, former Climatologists. Dr. Madden indicated that neither Stooksbury, nor Knox are interested in the resolution being brought before the University Council.

- Dean Ruppensburg pointed out that there was no knowledge as to whether the University had sent a response to the dismissals or not. He also voiced his disagreement to the characterization of the positions as “politicized”, given that those were State positions, and therefore, political positions from the beginning.
- Comments from the floor focused on the dismissal procedure and the function of the Senate, as a legislative body, in relation to this topic.
- During the discussion, senators expressed interest in knowing about the process that led to the appointments, the role that UGA played in it and, if there has been an official UGA response to the dismissals.
- It was suggested that UGA could develop guidelines under which faculty members could provide services for the State.
- President Madden indicated she would collect more information prior to a vote.

Update on legislation affecting undocumented students

- Dana Bultman indicated that a number of undocumented students affected by the BOR ban had to transfer to less selective institutions.
- SB458, the Senate Bill that would ban undocumented students from all State educational institutions, was still being analyzed by different committees of the GA Senate. If not voted upon during the week, the vote could pass to the supplementary session or the next legislative session.

Committee Reports:

- Academic Standards Committee: Received 3 petitions, approved 2, denied 1.
- Curriculum Committee: Approved 18 new courses, 28 course changes and 5 proposals.
- Executive Committee: No new business reported.
- Faculty Affairs Committee: The discussion on allowing degree-granting institutes in the Franklin College to grant tenure to faculty was moved to the coming month.
- Planning and Evaluation Committee: First draft of the report with the Franklin College Vision is approximating completion. Link to the draft will be active on April 16, and the final report will be available by May 9.

Meeting was adjourned at 4:30 PM

Respectfully submitted,
Marta Patiño Douce
Franklin College Senate Secretary and Senator for Geology

FRANKLIN COLLEGE OF ARTS & SCIENCES GRIFFIN CAMPUS PROPOSED BACHELOR OF ARTS DEGREE PROGRAM

In Fall 2007, the Franklin College of Arts and Sciences and the Terry College of Business each launched an undergraduate degree-completion program at the UGA Griffin Campus, joining the College of Agricultural and Environmental Sciences and the College of Family and Consumer Sciences, which were already offering such programs, and the College of Education and the College of Agricultural and Environmental Sciences, which were offering graduate programs, the MEd and EdS degrees in Mathematics Education and the MAL in Agricultural Leadership, respectively. For its initial undergraduate degree program on the Griffin Campus, the Franklin College chose a BS in Microbiology degree since community members' #1 major of choice in the Franklin College was a science degree that would allow them to meet requirements for admission to medical, dental, pharmacy, or vet school and that would prepare them for the growing number of biotechnology and life sciences jobs in the metro-Atlanta area. In addition, the BS in Microbiology (MIBO) degree program would draw upon the expertise of many of the research scientists already on the Griffin Campus, providing opportunities for MIBO majors to do directed research and/or work as a student worker in a research laboratory.

Now almost four and a half years later, the UGA Griffin Campus offers only eight undergraduate degree programs, with seven falling into one of two broad categories: business (BSA in Agribusiness, BSA in Food Industry Marketing and Administration, BSFCS in Consumer Economics, and BBA in General Business) and the biological sciences (BSA in Biological Science, BSES in Environmental Resource Science, and BS in Microbiology). The only undergraduate degree program outside of these two main areas is the BSED in Special Education. This limited range of degree programs does not satisfy the interest community members and students at area two-year institutions like Georgia Perimeter College, Gordon College, Georgia Military College (it has a satellite campus nearby in Fairburn), and Southern Crescent Technical College have in pursuing majors in the social sciences, especially popular majors like psychology, sociology, and criminal justice. In order to grow, the UGA Griffin Campus needs to expand its undergraduate degree offerings, and the new programs need to be selected based upon community interest and support and upon the opportunity to partner with area two-year institutions like those listed above.

Accordingly, the Franklin College is proposing to resurrect the AB in Interdisciplinary Studies (IDS) degree with an emphasis in the Social Sciences (AB/IDS/Social Sciences), which it offered at the UGA Gwinnett Campus from Fall Semester 2003 through Spring Semester 2008, and offer it at the Griffin Campus beginning Fall Semester 2012. The proposed AB/IDS/Social Sciences degree would allow students to pursue a concentration in either psychology or sociology, and the degree's major course work would consist of 11 courses: seven upper-division (3000- and 4000-level) courses in the student's area of concentration and four upper-division major electives in social science disciplines outside the student's area of concentration (history, psychology, sociology, and speech communication). In order to graduate, students in the AB program would have to satisfy all UGA and Franklin College graduation requirements, the UGA residency requirement, and the 39-Hour Rule regarding upper-division courses. (See the attached AB/IDS/Social Sciences check sheets.)

Offering the courses required for the proposed AB/IDS/Social Sciences degree's concentrations in psychology and sociology would require the hiring of two full-time lecturers, one in psychology and one in sociology. The AB/IDS/Social Sciences program at Gwinnett had only one full-time lecturer in psychology, who was on a 12-month contract and taught a total of 8 courses for the academic year (3 in the fall, 3 in the spring, and 2 in the summer). We were fortunate to hire a lecturer, Dr. Corinne McNamara, whom the Psychology Department approved to teach courses as wide ranging as PSYC 3230 Abnormal Psychology, PSYC 3550 Intro to Cognitive Science, PSYC 4110 Learning, and PSYC 4130 Physiological and Comparative Psychology, in addition to our Research Methods course taught under PSYC 3100 Special Topics. We were also fortunate to have a stable supply of temporary part-time PSYC instructors, many of whom taught for us regularly over a period of two or more years: Dr. Michelle Green (Fall 2003 – Spring 2008), Dr. Diane Byrd (Summer 2006 – Spring 2008), and Dr. Heather Adams (Spring 2004 – Summer 2006).

The faculty who taught our SOCI courses at the Gwinnett Campus also included a group of temporary part-time instructors who taught for us regularly for two or more years: Mr. Aristide Sechandice (Spring 2004 – Spring 2007), Mr. Todd Krohn (Summer 2003 – Spring 2008), Dr. Margaret Williamson (Fall 2003 – Spring 2005), and Dr. Ashwin Vyas (Fall 2006 – Spring 2008). Even though there was never a full-time SOCI lecturer at the Gwinnett Campus, we were able to find qualified faculty to teach a wide range of courses, such as Juvenile Delinquency, Gender & Work, Logic & Practice of Sociological Research, Race & Culture, and Development of Sociological Theory. Because of the Gwinnett campus's proximity to Athens and Atlanta, we were able to draw instructors who were teaching or had taught on the UGA Athens Campus as well as instructors who were teaching or had taught at Atlanta area colleges and universities. Since it will be more difficult to draw such temporary part-time faculty to the Griffin Campus than it was to draw them to the Gwinnett Campus, it will be important to hire a full-time lecturer to ensure that the SOCI course offerings for the AB/IDS/Social Sciences students will be sufficient each semester.

As is true for the Athens campus, the Lecturers in Psychology and Sociology for the Griffin campus will be hired following a national search conducted by the respective Athens-based departments. Likewise, their instructional performance will be judged by the same criteria (e.g. student evaluations) used on the Athens campus.

FRANKLIN COLLEGE OF ARTS & SCIENCES GRIFFIN CAMPUS PROPOSED BACHELOR OF ARTS DEGREE PROGRAM

In Fall 2007, the Franklin College of Arts and Sciences and the Terry College of Business each launched an undergraduate degree-completion program at the UGA Griffin Campus, joining the College of Agricultural and Environmental Sciences and the College of Family and Consumer Sciences, which were already offering such programs, and the College of Education and the College of Agricultural and Environmental Sciences, which were offering graduate programs, the MEd and EdS degrees in Mathematics Education and the MAL in Agricultural Leadership, respectively. For its initial undergraduate degree program on the Griffin Campus, the Franklin College chose a BS in Microbiology degree since community members' #1 major of choice in the Franklin College was a science degree that would allow them to meet requirements for admission to medical, dental, pharmacy, or vet school and that would prepare them for the growing number of biotechnology and life sciences jobs in the metro-Atlanta area. In addition, the BS in Microbiology (MIBO) degree program would draw upon the expertise of many of the research scientists already on the Griffin Campus, providing opportunities for MIBO majors to do directed research and/or work as a student worker in a research laboratory.

Now almost four and a half years later, the UGA Griffin Campus offers only eight undergraduate degree programs, with seven falling into one of two broad categories: business (BSA in Agribusiness, BSA in Food Industry Marketing and Administration, BSFCS in Consumer Economics, and BBA in General Business) and the biological sciences (BSA in Biological Science, BSES in Environmental Resource Science, and BS in Microbiology). The only undergraduate degree program outside of these two main areas is the BSED in Special Education. This limited range of degree programs does not satisfy the interest community members and students at area two-year institutions like Georgia Perimeter College, Gordon College, Georgia Military College (it has a satellite campus nearby in Fairburn), and Southern Crescent Technical College have in pursuing majors in the social sciences, especially popular majors like psychology, sociology, and criminal justice. In order to grow, the UGA Griffin Campus needs to expand its undergraduate degree offerings, and the new programs need to be selected based upon community interest and support and upon the opportunity to partner with area two-year institutions like those listed above.

Accordingly, the Franklin College is proposing to resurrect the AB in Interdisciplinary Studies (IDS) degree with an emphasis in the Social Sciences (AB/IDS/Social Sciences), which it offered at the UGA Gwinnett Campus from Fall Semester 2003 through Spring Semester 2008, and offer it at the Griffin Campus beginning Fall Semester 2012. The proposed AB/IDS/Social Sciences degree would allow students to pursue a concentration in either psychology or sociology, and the degree's major course work would consist of 11 courses: seven upper-division (3000- and 4000-level) courses in the student's area of concentration and four upper-division major electives in social science disciplines outside the student's area of concentration (history, psychology, sociology, and speech communication). In order to graduate, students in the AB program would have to satisfy all UGA and Franklin College graduation requirements, the UGA residency requirement, and the 39-Hour Rule regarding upper-division courses. (See the attached AB/IDS/Social Sciences check sheets.)

Offering the courses required for the proposed AB/IDS/Social Sciences degree's concentrations in psychology and sociology would require the hiring of two full-time lecturers, one in psychology and one in sociology. The AB/IDS/Social Sciences program at Gwinnett had only one full-time lecturer in psychology, who was on a 12-month contract and taught a total of 8 courses for the academic year (3 in the fall, 3 in the spring, and 2 in the summer). We were fortunate to hire a lecturer, Dr. Corinne McNamara, whom the Psychology Department approved to teach courses as wide ranging as PSYC 3230 Abnormal Psychology, PSYC 3550 Intro to Cognitive Science, PSYC 4110 Learning, and PSYC 4130 Physiological and Comparative Psychology, in addition to our Research Methods course taught under PSYC 3100 Special Topics. We were also fortunate to have a stable supply of temporary part-time PSYC instructors, many of whom taught for us regularly over a period of two or more years: Dr. Michelle Green (Fall 2003 – Spring 2008), Dr. Diane Byrd (Summer 2006 – Spring 2008), and Dr. Heather Adams (Spring 2004 – Summer 2006).

The faculty who taught our SOCI courses at the Gwinnett Campus also included a group of temporary part-time instructors who taught for us regularly for two or more years: Mr. Aristide Sechandice (Spring 2004 – Spring 2007), Mr. Todd Krohn (Summer 2003 – Spring 2008), Dr. Margaret Williamson (Fall 2003 – Spring 2005), and Dr. Ashwin Vyas (Fall 2006 – Spring 2008). Even though there was never a full-time SOCI lecturer at the Gwinnett Campus, we were able to find qualified faculty to teach a wide range of courses, such as Juvenile Delinquency, Gender & Work, Logic & Practice of Sociological Research, Race & Culture, and Development of Sociological Theory. Because of the Gwinnett campus's proximity to Athens and Atlanta, we were able to draw instructors who were teaching or had taught on the UGA Athens Campus as well as instructors who were teaching or had taught at Atlanta area colleges and universities. Since it will be more difficult to draw such temporary part-time faculty to the Griffin Campus than it was to draw them to the Gwinnett Campus, it will be important to hire a full-time lecturer to ensure that the SOCI course offerings for the AB/IDS/Social Sciences students will be sufficient each semester.

As is true for the Athens campus, the Lecturers in Psychology and Sociology for the Griffin campus will be hired following a national search conducted by the respective Athens-based departments. Likewise, their instructional performance will be judged by the same criteria (e.g. student evaluations) used on the Athens campus.
